DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO.'S BOOKS.

Ready Next Week:

Blix.

By Frank Norris.

IT would be difficult to imagine anything more different from the author's last book than this charming little California love idyll. Yet it shows the same vivid reality which caused Mr. Howells to point out "McTeague" as an "altogether remarkable book," abounding "in touches of character at once fine and free, in little miracles of observation, in vivid insight, in simple and subtle expression." Mr. Norris's work is, beyond a question, an element of real importance in current American fiction.

Size, 5 x 7½; Pages, about 250; Binding, cloth, decorated; Price, $1.25.

The Future of War.

By I. S. Bloch.

BLOCH'S monumental work, generally credited with furnishing the initial idea of the Czar's Peace Rescript, treats in an encyclopædic way the question, Is War Now Impossible? This book contains the vital portions of the original, translated from the Russian, with the author's co-operation, by R. C. Long; and it is prefaced by significant conversations which Mr. W. T. Stead had with M. Bloch.

Size, 5½ x 8¼; Pages, about 500; Many maps and illustrations; Binding, cloth; Price, $2.00.

The Romancers ("Les Romanesques") By Edmond Rostand.

HIS is perhaps the best of the earlier plays by the author of "Cyano de Bergerac." It is a very artistic little comedy, the keynote of which may be found in the stage direction that "the scene may be laid anywhere, provided the costumes are pretty." The translation is by Miss Mary Hendee, and is issued with M. Rostand's sanction.

Size, 4 x 6; Pages, 175; Binding, flexible cloth (uniform with "Cyano"); Price, 50 cents net.

The True Basis of Economics. By J. H. Stallard.

HIS work is in the shape of a correspondence between the author and Prof. David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, on the doctrines of Henry George. The book proper consists of a thoughtful and suggestive essay by Mr. Stallard on the law of independent and collective human life, in which he answers some objections to Mr. George's theories formulated by academic opponents.

Size, 5 x 7½; Pages, about 125; Type, 10-point; Price, paper, 50 cents net; cloth, $1.00.

The Single Story Series. By Rudyard Kipling.

THESE attractive little volumes, each containing one of Mr. Kipling's masterpieces, are uniformly bound with handsome decorated covers. They give in handy form some of the tales which have specially helped to give the author an international reputation as the first of modern story-tellers. The five now ready are:

THE MAN WHO WOULD BE KING.

THE COURTING OF DINAH SHADD.

THE INCARNATION OF KRISHNA MULVANEY.

THE DRUMS OF THE FORE AND AFT.

WITHOUT BENEFIT OF CLERGY.

Size, 4¼ x 6½; Type, 14-point; Pages, 100; Binding, cloth, decorated; Price, 50 cents each.

NOTES IN SEASON.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just ready "For the Sake of the Duchesse, a Page from the Life of the Vicomte de Championnet," by S. Walkey, of which the scene is laid in the early days of the eighteenth century, in the time of the regency of the Duc d'Orléans; also, "An Eclipse of Memory," by Morton Grinnell, a novel in which the characters are all Americans, but in which the scenes shift between New York, the West Indies, and Egypt.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "The Authority of Criticism, and Other Essays," by William P. Trent, a collection of essays on literary topics by a writer whose work has placed him in the very front rank as a profound thinker; "Dead Men Tell No Tales," by E. W. Hornung, a thrilling story of adventure; "The White Mail," a lively and adventurous story, by Cy Warman, who feels the romance of the railroad system of our land as does no other author; and "The Fugitive," by John R. Spears, a stirring boy's story, following the adventures of the hero from his country home in Vermont through his experiences at sea, on the coast of Africa, and in a slaver, from which he escapes.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "Mammon and Co.," a new novel, by Edward F. Benson, author of "Dodo" and "The Rubicon," who again deals with London society. The good genius of the tale is an American girl, (supposed to be founded on a real character,) who is a member of a well-known family. Very shortly a clear account of the Boers' side of the Transvaal question, written by Howard C. Hillegas, a New York newspaper man, will be brought out under the title of "Oom Paul's People." An important chapter is devoted to American interests in South Africa. A new series of text-books, to be known as the Twentieth Century Series, is in preparation under the editorial supervision of Dr. A. F. Nightingdale, superintendent of high schools, Chicago. There will be nearly 100 volumes of correlated text-books fully embodying the latest advances in education. The editors of the separate books have been chosen with reference to their special qualifications for the work assigned them.

LONGMANS, GREEN & Co. will have ready September 22 "Parson Kelly," a new historical novel, by A. E. W. Mason and Andrew Lang, dealing with the fortunes of an Irish parson without benefice and a secret agent of the Pretender in the early days of George I., and incidentally giving excellent pictures of London society in those stirring times. A new volume in the Builders of Greater Britain Series is "Admiral Phillip," connected with the founding of New South Wales, whose story is told by Louis Beck and Walter Jeffery; and the new volume in the Masters of Medicine is "Claude Bernard," by Sir Michael Foster. Mandell Creighton's "Queen Elizabeth," of which the Goupils brought out so luxurious an edition, will be reprinted without illustrations and added to the English Historical Series; and there will be a volume on "Common Sense in Education," by P. E. Barnett; also, a "Manual of the Principles of Practical Cookery," by E. E. Mann, head teacher of Liverpool Training School of Cookery.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. will publish next week "Blix," by Frank Norris, author of "McTeague," which W. D. Howells has declared an "altogether remarkable book." The author strikes a new note and has written a charming little California love idyll to follow the rather strong food of his first offering. I. S. Bloch's monumental work, "Is War Now Impossible," has been drawn upon for a volume to be called "The Future of War." The strongest portions of Bloch's book have been translated from the Russian with his sanction by R. C. Long, and the work will be prefaced with conversations which took place between W. T. Stead and Mr. Bloch. "The True Basis of Economics," by J. H. Stallard, appears in the shape of a correspondence between Professor David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, and the author, concerning the theories of Henry George. "The Romancers," (Les Romanesques,) an early play by Edmond Rostand, author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," will be issued shortly; and also five little volumes by Rudyard Kipling in The Single Story Series, each bound in decorative covers.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Dodd, T. J., D.D. Miracles; were they, or where they not performed by Jesus? A question of fact, not of science or theology. Cin., O., Curts & Jennings, [1899.] c. 207 p. por. D. cl., $1. [2740]

The author's general proposition is that miracles were wrought by Jesus, and that the proof of this afforded by the gospels is, in all regards, of the most convincing nature, and able to endure the severest tests to which the most critical investigation can subject it. His arguments are divided into six chapters: 1, Statement of the question and the evidence; 2, Further consideration of the evidence; 3, Assaults upon the evidence by Rénan, Mill, Huxley, and Hume; 4, Alleged inherent incredibility of miracles; 5, General review of the adverse argument; 6, Miracles the only explanation of Christ's power and kingdom in the world. General characteristics of the argument.

Garland, Will A. The broken locket. N. Y., G. W. Dillingham Co., 1899. c. 5-316 p. D. (Dillingham's American authors lib., no. 54.) pap., 50 c. [2741]

A story of Kentucky and of Washington political life. There is a love-story and a mystery about a young man's birth, which is solved by a broken locket. The hero is a young Kentuckian who dreams of being President of the United States.

Gautier, Théophile. One of Cleopatra's nights, and other fantastic romances; tr. by Lafcadio Hearn. [New issue.] N. Y., Brentano's, 1900, [1899.] c. '90, '99. 12+388 p. D. cl., $1.50. [2742]

Leighton, Marie Connor and Rob. Michael Dred, detective: the unravelling of a mystery of twenty years. N. Y., Brentano's, 1899. 8+328 p. il. D. cl., $1.25. [2749]

Michael Dred, a detective almost as ubiquitous and omniscient as Sherlock Holmes and Mr. Gryce, is put to unravel the mystery of the sudden death of Lord Luxmore, his intimate friend. Circumstantial evidence elicited before the coroner's jury in turn incriminates almost every one within the peer's household, from the dissipated heir to the butler and house-keeper. The jury find death by arsenic poisoning, but disagree upon the guilty person. Five years after the murderer makes confession—a surprise to the most ingenious reader.

Lessing, Gotthold Ephraim. Nathan the wise: a dramatic poem in five acts; tr. by W: Taylor from the German. N. Y., Cassell & Co., Ltd., 1899. 2-192 p. T. (Cassell's national lib., v. 7, no. 320.) pap., 10 c. [2750]

Magruder, Julia. A beautiful alien. Bost., R: G. Badger & Co., 1900, [1899.] c. '99. 3-223 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25. [2751]

The story of an unhappy marriage. The deck of an ocean steamer homeward bound from Europe is the meeting-place of the three chief characters. They are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dallas, newly married, and Albert Noel, a lawyer by profession but an artist by inclination. Mrs. Dallas, of Swedish Italian ancestry, had been taken fresh from a convent by her father, a card sharper, and married to Dallas, an American, of whom he knew nothing except that he spent money freely. The life of the Dallases in an American city is described, and the wife's gradual awakening. Albert Noel is brought into her life, and saves her from utter despair.

Montaigne, Michael Eyquem de. The education of children; sel., tr., and annot. by L. E. Rector. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. 23+191 p. D. (International education ser., no. 46.) cl., $1. [2752]

Contents: Editor's preface; Author's preface; Topical analysis; a biographical and critical introduction; translations of the following chapters: of the education of children; pedantry; the affection of fathers for their children; of liars, habit, presumption, physiognomy, anger, of the art of conversation, idleness, experience, history, etc. Index of names. General index.

Pritchard, Mrs. K. and Hesketh. ["E. and H. Heron," pseud.] A modern mercenary. N. Y., Doubleday & McClure Co., 1899. c. 5+311 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2753]

A young Englishman named John Rallywood, having lost his estate and fortune, through an American claimant, who makes his claim good, looks about him for means to live. He finally obtains a commission in the army of the little Duchy of Maïsau, an independent state supposed to be located somewhere in Europe. Rallywood is a romantic figure, and a brave and dashing fellow, and is soon involved in numerous plots and counterplots, brought about by the political intrigues of Maïsau's more powerful neighbors. There is of course a beautiful woman of rank, loved by Rallywood, whose sense of honor comes for a time in direct conflict with his chances of happiness.

Quackenbos, J: Duncan. Enemies and evidences of Christianity: thoughts on questions of the hour. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1899] c. 2-355 p. O. cl., $1.50. [2754]

Addresses from the standpoint of Christianity, and distinctly evangelical. The first one sets forth the pre-eminent claims of Christianity. The others ask and answer what is Christianity more than Hinduism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Muhammadanism, Theosophy, Spiritism, Christian Science, Socialism, Communism and Economic Democracy, Altruism and Agnosticism. The final chapter is devoted to evidences of Christianity.

Ragozin, Zénaïde Alexeïona. A history of the world's earliest peoples. N. Y., W: Beverley Harison, 1899. c. 12+108 p. il. map, D. bds., 60 c. [2755]

Prepared for the lower school grades; written in simple, clear English, and profusely illustrated with designs taken from famous historical collections.

Rand, E: A: The whistle in the alley. Bost., A. I. Bradley & Co., 1899. c. 269 p. il. D. cl., $1. [2756]

The principal incidents of the story happen in Fore Alley and Back Alley. The two alleys are supposed to be situated in the slums of a New England fishing village. The hero is first seen as a rag and bottle vender, who makes his presence known by his clear whistle; during one of his trips to Fore Alley he finds a paper on the temperance question; after reading the paper he signs the pledge, and uses measures to reform the intemperate dwellers in the alleys.

*Robinson, Byron, M.D. The peritoneum. 2d ed. [New issue.] Chic., Chicago Medical Book Co., 1899. 509 p. il. 8°, cl., net, $4. [2757]

Rogers, Frank D. Reveries of an undertaker. Clayton, N. Y., Thousand Islands Publishing Co., [1899.] c. 5+117 p. por. nar. D. leatherette, 25 c. [2758]

Pathetic and humorous incidents supposed to have come within the "personal observation of an undertaker." The titles are: An ancestral tree; A sermon lost; A hard customer; He would be embalmed; The old way; Joe Mafraw; A trip abroad; The old undertaker. By the author of "Folk stories of the northern border."

Ross, Barclay M. Don Fernandez, the Spanish spy: a story of the war with Spain. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., 1899. c. 4-330 p. D. (Dillingham's metropolitan lib., no. 53.) pap., 50 c. [2759]

The "Spanish spy" has an accomplice in his beautiful sister; together they attempt to ruin a young American, the son of a rich Chicagoan. This is partly accomplished through Fernandez's remarkable resemblance to the American, Ralph Livingstone, who is made to appear the murderer of his father; Fernandez then has a will forged disinheriting Ralph. Believing he has Ralph in his power, he endeavors to make use of him in searching for information. The story is carried through the war in Cuba, and has many sensational scenes.

Shaw, G: Bernard. Cashel Byron's profession. N. Y., Brentano's, 1899. 2+230 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2760]

Cashel Byron was the son of an actress, who, finding him unmanageable, put him to boarding-school. He was unjustly treated, and ran away and became a cabin-boy. After many ups and downs he chose the profession of a prize-fighter, and became champion of England, the United States, and Australia. He cannot reconcile himself to the fact that he who stood at the head of his profession could not be admitted in society. A rich woman finally marries him, and under her wise rule his better qualities assert themselves.

Smith, N: Stories of great national songs. Milwaukee, Wis., The Young Churchman Co., [1899.] c. 3-238 p. D. cl., net, $1. [2761]

The opening paper is devoted to illustrations of the power of song; this is followed by the stories of the first American national air—"Yankee doodle"; Billings—the first American war song writer; The first original American song—"Hail Columbia"; the stories of "The star spangled banner," "My country, 'tis of thee," "Columbia, the gem of the ocean," the song of John Brown's body, "The battle cry of freedom," Mrs. Howe's battle hymn of the republic, "Marching through Georgia," "Maryland, my Maryland," "Home, sweet home," songs of the south—Dixie; Great Britain's national anthem; The Marseillaise; Battle hymns of Germany, etc.

Snaith, J. C. Lady Barbarity: a romance. N. Y., Appleton, 1899. c. '98, '99. 4+332 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 271.) cl., $1; pap., 50 c. [2762]

The time is the early part of the eighteenth century, the scene changing from Yorkshire to London. The plot turns upon the attempt of "Lady Barbarity," so-called by her discarded lovers, to rescue a handsome young rebel from the gallows. The narrative is pure comedy carried through many amusing and stirring scenes of adventure by the heroine, Lady Barbara Goswiter, the noble Earl, her father, her pert young maid, the handsome follower of the Pretender, born a mere baker's boy, his captor, Captain Grantley, and his daring rescuer, Mr. Snark.

The term language as here used applies to the use of oral and written composition, and to those points of training which tend to give facility and accuracy. This training is secured by exercises in description, narration, reproduction, and essay writing or exposition. Special attention is given to letter-writing and the preparation of papers supposed to be required by the secretary of an organization. Includes a brief biography of Longfellow and selections from his works, intended as an introductory course in literature; also a study of the fundamental laws of good writing and style.

The story has its scene in the "black belt" of Mississippi; the time is a few years after the close of the Civil War. A young girl comes here after her father's death, to make her home with her uncle and cousins—"the Spivey brood," as they are called—a set of desperate outlaws. She is quite ignorant of the character they bear, her knowledge of their unscrupulousness coming to her slowly. She attracts the attention of a rich cotton planter who has a startling history, and it is the love-story of these two that is the principal episode.

PRINTED CATALOGUES FOR GREAT LIBRARIES.

At the recent meeting of the American Library Association in Atlanta James L. Whitney, head of the cataloging department, and now acting librarian, of the Boston Public Library, read an interesting paper on the prospects of issuing a printed book catalogue of the Boston Public Library. The estimates of cost and extent of such a catalogue, and the probable length of time that would be necessary for its preparation, were based upon careful study of these features in the catalogues of the Boston Athenæum, the Surgeon-General's Library, the British Museum, and the Bibliothèque Nationale.

Mr. Whitney finds that the public card catalogue of the Boston Public Library at present contains about 1,200,000 author and subject entries, and that the yearly additions to these cards average about 45,000 annually. Starting on a basis of the 1,200,000 titles now prepared, the catalogue would fill from 24,000 to 30,000 pages. At a printing rate of five pages a day (a rate considerably in excess of the average, the Surgeon-General's catalogue being printed at the rate of about three and one-third pages daily, and the Peabody Institute and Boston Athenæum catalogues at a less rate,) the time needed for the publication of the catalogue would be from sixteen to twenty years. Indeed in the case of the catalogue of the Boston Athenæum—which included about 92,000 volumes and about 36,000 pamphlets—work was begun in 1856 and copy sent to the printer in May, 1872. "January of that year was taken as the limit beyond which no book should be added. On its completion, therefore, it did not contain the titles of books added to the library for the preceding ten years." In printing the index-catalogue of the Surgeon-General's library and the Peabody Institute catalogue provision was made for the inclusion, so far as possible, of books and articles received during the printing, yet on the completion of the former enough material had collected in the letter A to fill 828 pages, as against 718 pages in the printed work, while in the Peabody catalogue the same letter occupies 236 pages in the supplement and only 136 pages in the main work.

Regarding the value of a catalogue that does not contain titles of books added for ten or more years previous to its issue, some interesting comparisons are made. It was found from tests made in the Boston Public Library "that of books taken for home use on given days 24 per cent. were published before 1883, while 19 per cent. bore date between 1883 and 1888, and 67 per cent. between 1888 and 1898; while of books taken for hall use, 37 per cent. were published before 1883, while 24 per cent. were issued between 1883 and 1888, and 39 per cent. between 1888 and 1898. On the completion of the proposed catalogue for this library it probably would not contain one-fourth of the books called for by readers."

The estimate as to the probable extent of such a catalogue is based upon the respective sizes of the great printed catalogues existing. The Boston Athenæum catalogue is in five volumes with 3400 pages; "in the five volumes of the Peabody Institute Library the 5000 pages catalogue a collection of perhaps 100,000 volumes. The index-catalogue at Washington in its 16 volumes, or 16,000 pages, represents a collection somewhat larger, minutely analyzed. The British Museum catalogue, with author entries only, which approaches completion, thus far fills about 110,000 columns (two to a page, folio size.) These columns, if joined to one another, would reach more than 17 miles." For the Boston Public Library, with its over half a million volumes and many thousand pamphlets, a catalogue in thirty volumes, of a thousand pages each, is thought to be a moderate estimate.

The cost of such a work cannot be easily judged. The Boston Athenæum catalogue is said to have cost nearly $100,000; the index-catalogue of the Surgeon-General's Library has averaged $12,000 a volume for printing and binding alone; for printing the British Museum catalogue, begun in January, 1891, an annual grant was assigned, which has been gradually raised until it now amounts to £3000 a year. The price that could be set upon such a work would be purely nominal in relation to its cost, and in any case the sale would be closely limited. Mr. Whitney says: "For the British Museum catalogue the yearly subscription for the parts, which began to appear about 1881, is £3 10s. The selling price of the entire catalogue will be £84. About 40 copies have been sold and as many given away. The price of the five volumes of the Peabody Institute catalogue is $37, and $11.50 for volumes 1-3 of the second series. The Boston Athenæum catalogue is sold for $5 a volume, and to libraries at $20 for the entire work. About 350 copies have been sold. The price for the catalogue of the library of the Surgeon-General's office is $3.50 a volume; for that of the Bibliothèque Nationale, 15 francs a volume." Concerning the latter catalogue, it was stated early this year that the officials of the Bibliothèque Nationale had abandoned the enterprise on account of the great expense involved. Later information, however, is to the effect that the work will be continued, and that at some distant date other volumes will appear.

Reference is made to the possibilities of the linotype as a means of printing a general catalogue and keeping it up to date by insertions. This, it is thought, is impracticable, owing partly to the great difficulty and cost of the constant rearrangement and re-grouping that would be necessary, and partly to other difficulties which have been met with in less degree in the apparently simple re-working of the monthly accession lists into the "annual list" now issued each January.

The simplifying of the problem by the issue of a catalogue giving author entries only is touched upon. This is the plan adopted by the British Museum and the Bibliothèque Nationale; but it is thought that such a catalogue would not meet the needs of users sufficiently to justify its cost. The issue of a catalogue of this sort for the general bibliographical benefit would be properly a function of the Library of Congress, as representing the national library of the United States, but would not be within the scope of a library like that of Boston.

Mr. Whitney's careful paper would seem to dispose, for the time being at least, of the matter of a general printed catalogue for the Boston Public Library. He frankly says that he believes such an undertaking "would be unwise," and his analysis of its details bears out this opinion. In conclusion he refers to an article in the Quarterly Review of October, 1898, regarding the book catalogue of the British Museum. "It is there stated that the complete catalogue will consist of about 600 volumes, containing on an average 250 columns each. During its progress through the press the accessions to the library have exceeded half a million titles, only a fraction of which will appear in this catalogue. The number of copies available is about 250, but of these less than one-third have passed into circulation, and even of that number about one-half have been given gratuitously. A supplementary catalogue of accessions was printed, which a subscriber could obtain for £3 a year in addition to his subscription of £3 10s. for the principal catalogue. But this accessions catalogue found scarcely any subscribers, and the issue has now been contracted within the narrowest possible limits." The whole catalogue, it is added, "is almost unknown outside of the reading-room, its complete form is found in the reading-room alone, and the very few persons who have access to it beyond those precincts possess it in a form which is so incomplete as well-nigh to frustrate the chief reason of its existence."

THE DISCOUNT QUESTION.

AFTER JANUARY 1, UNIFORM PRICE EVERYWHERE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29, 1899.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: It may be of interest to your readers to learn, in connection with the various letters in your issue of August 26 concerning the foolish cutting of prices, that we have under consideration the details of a plan, which we will put into operation at the beginning of next year, whereby our publications will be sold at a uniform price everywhere.

We appreciate the fact that we will naturally lose the trade of certain jobbers and department stores by this move, but we believe that the trade in general will come to see that we are working in their interest, and in pushing our line they will make a fair profit in place of a loss under the present unbusinesslike system of selling a $1.50 book for 89 cents.

We believe that we will not only have the support of the bookselling trade, but of the better class of department stores, as the latter are not in business for their health—although some dealers seem to think so.

It does not take a great deal of figuring to note that if a book is billed at 40 per cent. and sold at 20 per cent., and it costs 25 per cent. to run the business, the store or department doing such a business will some day cause the publisher a loss, or drop, to a certain extent anyway, the business.

As soon as we finish the details of our method we will inform the trade fully in reference to it. DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY.

AGREEMENT TO SELL BOOKS AT NET LIST PRICE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 29, 1899.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: I am pleased to see the communications relating to the "cut-price" evil, etc., in your issue of the 26th.

The letter of Mr. A. M. Robertson is on the right line, but his proposition for removing the evil seems to me to be more sweeping than we can expect or hope for. In this stage of the world's progress we cannot expect to make the old war-time profits of 35% or 40%. We cannot go back to the retailing of books at publishers' prices. It would not be fair or right to the buyer, and to ask retail prices from public libraries would be even more unfair. To retail books at the publisher's price would mean a general reduction of catalogue prices of from 20% to 25%. This would entail a large expense on the publisher, and would for a long time be very embarrassing to the old dealers, who have the present retail prices firmly fixed in mind, and can quote prices and discount to a customer on hundreds, and perhaps thousands, of items without the help of the catalogues.

In my opinion, some such plan as outlined below would be much better for both publisher and bookseller. Let the publisher demand a signed agreement from all dealers (1) that they will sell all books issued at net prices, at the net list price, allowing not over 10% discount to public libraries; (2) that on all books sold to the trade at regular discount the best discount that the dealer shall allow under any circumstances shall be 25%, except that to public libraries the discount shall be the usual 33 $\frac{1}{3}$ %.

If some such arrangement as this could be made by the leading publishers, booksellers would have little to complain of. We should be making a fair profit, for it is the cutting by the department stores of 30% and 40% from the retail prices that is driving the bookseller out of business.

My plan would not disturb the general book-buyer, and it would keep the public library trade where it belongs, with the local dealer; it would also give the bookseller a chance to make a living profit on the "David Harums" and "Richard Carvels," and other popular books, which, under present conditions, are just the books on which there is not a living profit.

H. GREGORY.

ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORT.

ROCKLAND, ME., Aug. 28, 1899.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

DEAR SIR: We enjoyed reading the letter in the current issue of the WEEKLY from Mr. A. M. Robertson on the "Cut-Price Evil."

The adoption of some such plan would be a boon to the publishers, dealers, and general public. The first publisher who adopts such a plan will have our hearty support, and we will carry in stock twice as many of his books as we do at present, give him exclusive window displays, and show his books first to prospective customers.

A. J. HUSTON.

SIX BEST-SELLING BOOKS—A CORRECTION.

IN our last week's issue we inadvertently quoted from the Bookman one of its sectional reports of the six best-selling books in August instead of its list giving the average. The list, corrected, reads as follows:

1. David Harum. Westcott. Appleton. $1.50.
2. Richard Carvel. Churchill. Macmillan. $1.50.
3. When Knighthood was in Flower. Caskoden. Bowen-Merrill Co. $1.50.
4. The Market Place. Frederic. Stokes. $1.50.
5. No. 5 John Street. Whiteing. Century Co. $1.50.
6. The Fowler. Harraden. Dodd, Mead & Co. $1.50.

BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATIONS.

VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

ACCORDING to a change of programme the tenth annual convention of the Virginia Booksellers' Association was called together in Richmond, Va., on August 4, instead of at Virginia Beach, as was first intended. President T. S. Beckwith was in the chair, and the following firms were represented: Anderson & Thompson, Portsmouth; Vickery & Co., Alfriend & Co., Norfolk; T. S. Beckwith & Co., Petersburg; A. Hartung, R. G. Meyers, Hunter & Co., Richmond; Boatwright Bros., Danville; and A. M. Brechin, Charlottesville. A number of others were absent on account of change of date and place of meeting.

The president addressed the association relative to better discounts from publishers, and the relation between booksellers and publishers; at the conclusion of his address he referred to the secretary, to be spread in the minutes, a copy of the State contract, showing various discounts offered by publishers to dealers.

Under the head of new business, it was moved and carried that the annual dues be reduced from $5 to $2 per annum in advance. Next the question of the discriminating charges, by publishers of school-books, for cases and cartage, was discussed, and it was resolved to bring the matter to the attention of the publishers.

On invitation, B. F. Johnson, of B. F. Johnson & Co., of Richmond, Va., addressed the convention relative to the supply of school-books to small dealers and discounts allowed by them to grocery stores and small shops carrying school-books only two months in the year. The address was replied to by the president in detail. Mr. Johnson agreed to lay before the directors of his company the proposition of the association.

After a general expression of opinions from each member as to discounts received from publishers and other matters of interest to the trade, the president was appointed a committee of one to draft a letter to be sent to the various publishers of miscellaneous books, expressing the position of booksellers throughout the country as to the cutting of prices on books by department stores and large dealers. On motion, it was decided that the letter should be sent to THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for publication, signed by the association. The letter reads as follows:

PETERSBURG, VA., Aug. 4, 1899.

To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly:

WE have waited, hoping some abler pen would make another appeal to publishers in the interest not only of the booksellers but in justice to themselves, the public, and the dealer. This question is of interest to all lovers and makers of books—the question, namely, of the real value of books and their prices to the reader or purchaser. Makers or manufacturers properly value the article made. In no line of goods, save that of books, does the manufacturer pretend to furnish the customer his manufactured article at the same price he does the jobber or dealer.

Books are, as they should be, above and beyond the keg of nails or the pound of putty. A book is individual, written and prepared to the end of education, elevation, civilization, and enlightenment, and should have an individual value.

The article in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for July 22, giving the action taken by English publishers tending to the proper protection of the trade and to justice to the publisher, has suggested this communication. Now that such publishers as (we name only those having American houses) Longmans, Green & Co., Macmillan & Co., Ltd., Cassell & Co., Ltd., George Routledge & Sons, Ltd., Frederick Warne & Co., and Thomas Nelson & Sons, on the other side, have been convinced that the step should be taken, can they deny to their American constituents what they grant is due to our English brethren of the trade? And why shall not all American publishers follow these great houses and come out with a bold front, stemming the tide of this cutthroat means of degrading their honorable calling?

We appeal to the great houses of Appleton, Harper, Lippincott, Houghton, Crowell & Co., Dodd, Mead & Co., Dana Estes & Co., Scribner's, and others, to follow the lead of the English publishers, and when fixing the price of their product, the individual book, put it at its value, and not at a price which may be broken the day after its issue.

It has come to pass that no one—publisher, jobber, or bookseller—pretends to ask for a book the price put upon that book by the publisher himself, who ought to know the value of his own product. The publisher discredits his own act and teaches others to do so. Why should $1.50 be advertised as the price of a book when it is expected to be sold anywhere from 75 cents to $1.20, only the innocent, ignorant, or willing one sometimes paying the so-called $1.50 price, and afterward, when he "learns the ropes," damning the publisher or dealer, who he will always believe swindled him?

We cannot understand why publishers of miscellaneous books will not see at least the injustice, and, we think, the shortsightedness of this practice.

After long years of turmoil and weariness of spirit the school-book publishers, as a rule, have seen the error of their way and are publishing and selling their books at their real value, making no discount except to dealers, and, unfortunately, to the sample hunter, the preacher, and the teacher.

Publish your books, gentlemen, at their real value. Sell your books at the price you, yourselves, declare they are worth, and give off to the dealers 25% and no more, and to the jobber his additional discount for quantities. We take it you will soon find a vast improvement in the general result. How can you expect the booksellers to carry your stock when, before they receive your new issues, you will fill an order from the bookseller's customer, delivered, for about what you charge him who is buying in large or small quantities? You have nearly destroyed the large harvest you had from the dealer. You cannot deny the fact that the bookseller's trade is worth having, and yet you do all you can to drive him out of the book business and make him handle all sorts of knick-knacks, throwing his would-be profession to the winds and making the educational centre of his community a sort of junk shop.

VIRGINIA BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

The following honorary members were present: Col. A. V. Bidgood, Geo. M. West, Montgomery West, and H. M. Starke, all of whom made short addresses to the association.

The next order of business being election of officers, a ballot was taken, with the following result: T. S. Beckwith, Petersburg, president; J. J. Samuels, Norfolk, vice-president; J. O. Boatwright, Danville, secretary and treasurer; executive committee the above named, with A. M. Brechin, Charlottesville; Adolph Hartung, Richmond; W. G. Thompson, Portsmouth. On motion, it was decided to have the next convention at the seaside early in July, date to be fixed by the executive committee.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NEWSDEALERS, BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS.

At the annual meeting of the National Association of Newsdealers, etc., held at Buffalo, N. Y., on August 22 and 23, resolutions were adopted providing for the licensing of newsboys; protesting against the failure of the publishers of certain periodicals to publish the retail price of their respective journals on their title-page; regretting the death and eulogizing the character of Robert Bonner; sanctioning the tearing from periodicals by the newsdealers of advertisements that are regarded as detrimental to their interests; authorizing the appointment of a committee to wait on the American News Company and other news companies and ask that they cease to receive individual subscriptions direct, thereby depriving dealers of commissions, such committee to inform the news companies that the dealers will start a news company of their own if the practice is not stopped.

No change was made in the officers for the ensuing year.

OBITUARY NOTES.

DANIEL WEBSTER FISH, author of "Fish's Arithmetic," and of the revised editions of Robinson's arithmetics published by the American Book Company, died on the 4th inst., at Rochester, N. Y.

SURGEON-MAJOR EDWARD D'ARCY EVERZARD, author of a "Topographical Account of Mergui," "A New and Successful Method of the Treatment of Cholera," and a "Treatise on Beriberi," died recently at Broadstairs, England, in his seventy-eighth year.

THE REV. CHARLES HENRY COREY, D.D., author of a book entitled "Reminiscences of Thirty Years' Labor Among the Colored People of the South," died on the 5th inst., at Seabrook, N. H. He was born at New Canaan, New Brunswick, December 12, 1834. In 1867 he was appointed principal of the Augusta Institute in Georgia, and in 1877 he was elected president of the Richmond Theological Institute.

CYRUS FRANCIS LOUTREL, a member of the old printing and stationery firm of Francis & Loutrel, died on the 3d inst., at South Orange, N. J. He was born in New York City in 1849, and as a boy was apprenticed in his father's business, then at 45 Maiden Lane. On the death of his father's partner young Loutrel was taken into the firm. In 1893 the business became a joint stock company, and three years later left its parent home in Maiden Lane to establish itself at 146 William Street.

VICTOR E. MAUGER, one of the old-time manufacturers of playing cards, died in London, Eng., August 9. He was born in Hull, Eng., in 1832, but passed his youth in Glasgow. In 1854 he came to New York and began to manufacture tags. In 1866 he sold out his business to what is now known as the Dennison Manufacturing Company, and turned his attention to introducing steam lithographic presses. At this time he also became the American representative of Godall & Sons, of Liverpool, manufacturers of playing cards. When the high duty on playing cards made the business of importing them unprofitable he began the manufacture of them on his own account. In 1878 he sold out to Andrew Dougherty and the New York Consolidated Playing Card Co., and two years later removed to Cincinnati, where he started the firm of Russell, Mauger & Co., which has since been absorbed by the United States Playing Card Co. In 1888 he went to San Diego, Cal., and in 1890 he became connected with the National Card Company, of Indianapolis, Ind. In 1894 he went to London as the representative of the United States Playing Card Company.

WILLIAM MCCRILLIS GRISWOLD, son of Rufus Wilmot Griswold, but better known by the pseudonym "Q. P.," under which he published his "Q. P." indexes, died at Seal Harbor, Me., August 9. He was born at Bangor, Me., October 9, 1853, and was graduated from Exeter Academy in 1871 and from Harvard in 1875. His series of "Q. P.," or Quarterly Periodical indexes, was initiated by a general index to The Nation (1865-1880, afterwards extended to 1885, with a contemplated extension to date.) This eccentric though exceedingly useful compilation was prepared without the knowledge of the editors of The Nation, and its appearance was as complete a surprise to them as to the public at large. This was followed by similar indexes to the Atlantic Monthly, International Review, Lippincott's, Eclectic, Littell's Living Age, Scribner's first twenty-two volumes, Deutsche Rundschau, North American Review, Contemporary and Fortnightly Reviews, Nineteenth Century, Revue des Deux Mondes, and to the Nouvelle Revue. He also published seven "Cumulative Indexes," including one to Harper's Weekly, 1857-1887; "Descriptive Lists of Novels and Tales," dealing with American country and American city life, with ancient history, history of North America, life in France, Germany, Italy, Norway, and Russia; also, "Descriptive Lists" of "International Novels," "British Novels," and "Romantic Novels." He also prepared a "Directory of Writers for the Literary Press in the U. S.," and a "Directory of Authors, including Writers for Literary Magazines;" a number of annual indexes; a compilation of narratives called "Travel," "France," "Germany," and "Switzerland;" "A Record of Politics and Politicians in the United States, 1865-1882," which is practically an index to articles on these subjects in The Nation, with occasional references to other sources; and "Passages from the Correspondence and Other Papers of Rufus W. Griswold," which is not so much intended to be an apology for the author of "Poets and Poetry of America," etc., as a truthful portrait, by indirection, of his father. He was for three or four years Mr. Spofford's assistant in the copy-right office at the Congressional Library. As to his work, we agree with the Evening Post that "of all Mr. Griswold's indexes it is proper to say that they bore the strongest marks of the personal equation. He was his own publisher; his labors could fairly be called disinterested, since the pecuniary return was most precarious; hence, a studied condensation, with signs and symbols offering no little obstacle to rapid reference. Even some phonetic deformations in line with the so-called reform (applicable last of all to an index) were philanthropically adopted by Mr. Griswold. These eccentricities were reinforced by an imperfect knowledge of the mechanic art of printing. But, all deductions made, the 'Quarterly Periodical Indexes' were and will ever remain a great boon to the student, the librarian and the bookseller."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

SAMUEL CLEMENS ("Mark Twain") will spend the fall and winter of this year at Princeton, N. J. It is reported that Mr. Clemens has signified his intention of making Princeton his permanent home.

DR. HENRY REED STILES is at work on a history of Wethersfield, Conn., the most ancient town in the State. Dr. Stiles will be remembered as the editor of the old New York Historical Magazine, and as the author of an important "History of Brooklyn" in three volumes, a "History of Ancient Windsor, Conn.," "Stiles's Genealogy," and "Bundling." Dr. Stiles's present address is P. O. Box 1810, New York City.

SWINBURNE has changed the title of his forthcoming tragedy to "Rosamund, Queen of Lombards: a tragedy." The Rosamund whose name gives the title to this work is the queen of the Lombards who conspired with another to assassinate her husband, Albovine, in revenge for the wrongs he had done her. The story, as told by Machiavelli, is that Albovine, (Gibbon's Alboin,) after having slain Rosamund's father, forcibly married her, and at a banquet compelled her to drink from a drinking-cup made out of the dead king's skull, and pledge Albovine in a toast. "The way in which Rosamund compasses this revenge is," according to the London Athenaeum, "in certain essential points, different from her method in Middleton's play of 'The Witch,' and also in Alfieri's play on the same subject. Davenant's miserable tragedy, in which Rosamund plays the leading part, is scarcely worth alluding to."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR T. HADLEY, of Yale, on the 4th inst. announced that he would retire next February from the Editorial Board of The Yale Review.

The Voice, published for many years by the Funk & Wagnalls Co., has passed into the hands of Samuel Dickie and John G. Woolley, publishers of The Lever, a rival Prohibition organ. The two journals will be consolidated under the title of The New Voice.

THE covers of The Bookbuyer for September, October, and November have been designed by C. L. Hinton. Taken together they represent in symbolic form the development of the art of writing. The first shows the age of the graver, the second of the stylus, the third of the pen. They are printed in four colors.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, New York, announces a complete reprint of "The Expositor's Bible" in six large octavo volumes.

RICHARD G. BADGER & Co. have just ready "A Beautiful Alien," by Julia Magruder, which is said to be fully equal in merit to "Struan" and "The Princess Sonia."

THE LITERARY SHOP, (The Smith Book Co.,) Cincinnati, have just ready "Thoughtful Hours," a book of poems, by S. M. Herrick, many of them covering literary subjects.

THE YOUNG CHURCHMAN CO. have just ready "Stories of Great National Songs," by Colonel Nicholas Smith, with many illustrations and good portraits of the writers of our most stirring national songs.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. have just ready "Anne Mauleverer," by Mrs. Kathleen Manington Caffyn ("Iota,") whose "Yellow Aster" and "Poor Max" have given her a high place among successful novelists.

THE LIFE PUBLISHING CO., New York, will publish at once a collection of the short stories contributed to Life by Louis Evan Shipman, author of "D'Arcy of the Guards." The book will have illustrations by C. D. Gibson.

CURTS & JENNINGS have just issued "Character and Conduct," talks to young people, by Rev. Dr. George M. Steele; also "Miracles," by Rev. Dr. Thomas J. Dodd, who treats the miracles as a question of fact, not of science or theology.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just issued "The Young Citizen," by Charles F. Dole, especially intended for rising citizens from ten to fourteen years of age, who are to use it as a reader at school and at home in the hope it will encourage ethical and patriotic feeling that will remain through life.

In our issue for August 26 we inadvertently mentioned the New Amsterdam Book Company as the publishers of Markham's "The Man With the Hoe, and Other Poems." Of course, as our readers no doubt are well aware, we meant to say that the publishers are the Doubleday & McClure Co.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL CO., Indianapolis, have in preparation a volume for young people entitled "Of Such is the Kingdom," by Miss Clara Vawter. The volume will be illustrated by the author's brother, Will Vawter, who made the amusing pictures for an edition of James Whitcomb Riley's child verse last year.

THE GAMMEL BOOK CO., Austin, Tex., has just issued "A Calendar for the Nineteenth and Twentieth Century," prepared by D. C. Stith. The calendar, which is printed on stout cardboard, 11 x 11 inches, covers the period from 1801 to 2000, and is easily consulted—no involved or intricate methods being used to give at once the date required. The retail price of the calendar is 25 cents.

MARLIER, CALLANAN & CO., Boston, have just ready "The Friars in the Philippines," by Rev. Ambrose Coleman, a collection of articles which have been scattered through several magazines and are now collected into an illustrated volume. The papers describe the work of the religious orders in the Philippines, consider the charges made against them, the sectarian missionary movement, and prove the rebellion largely the work of a secret organization.

BRENTANO'S, New York City, have issued a translation, by Lafcadio Hearn, of some of Gautier's "Nouvelles" and "Romans et Contes," which appears entitled "One of Cleopatra's Nights," from the opening story; "Cashel Byron's Profession," by G. Bernard Shaw, a novel dealing with various ethical questions in a young man's career; and "Michael Dred, Detective," in which Marie Connor Leighton and Robert Leighton unravel a mystery of twenty years.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready "Black Rock, a tale of the Selkirks," by Ralph Connor, which is said to be a pseudonym. It has a strong introduction by Professor George Adam Smith, and is a history of a crusade against drink in northwest Canada, written in the form of interesting fiction. Another book of merit is "The Bishop's Shadow," by Mrs. I. T. Thurston, who dedicates her book to the memory of Phillips Brooks, who is said to be the original of her hero.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO. have just published "A Modern Mercenary," a new novel by E. and Hesketh Pritchard, mother and son, who under the names of E. and H. Heron have made themselves very popular as story-writers. This house has made selections from the biographical portion of Charles Dudley Warner's great Library of the World's Best Literature, and has put them into four neat volumes to be known as the Warner Classics. They are divided into v. 1, Philosophers and Scientists; v. 2, Novelists; v. 3, Poets; v. 4, Historians and Essayists. The fourth series of Little Masterpieces is also ready, and three new little volumes covering Lamb, De Quincey, and Thackeray are issued, neatly boxed in an imitation of maple wood.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 16th inst. Mrs. Whitney's new story, entitled "Square Pegs," showing how difficult it is for persons to fit themselves to places in which they do not belong, with a love-story thrown in; two volumes of "Letters and Recollections of John M. Forbes," one of the most notable and useful and successful of Boston merchants, and one of the most public-spirited men of this generation; "The Boys of Scrooby," a new story of the early years of the seventeenth century, by Ruth Hall, whose excellent story, "In the Brave Days of Old," will be well remembered; "Nannie's Happy Childhood," a story for children and their mothers, by Mrs. Caroline Leslie Field, Mrs. Whitney's daughter; "Raphael," the first of a series of volumes in the Riverside Art Series, intended to supply for schools valid and interesting information about great artists, the series to be edited by Estelle M. Hurl, the author of "The Life of Our Lord in Art;" a translation of "Two Tragedies of Seneca," by Ella Isabel Harris, to belong to the series begun by Professor Palmer's translation of the Antigone of Sophocles; a new popular edition of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with 15 full-page illustrations by Kemble; and a new edition of Mr. Hopkins' popular story in verse, "Geraldine, a Souvenir of the St. Lawrence."

Chatterbox for 1899

THE KING OF JUVENILES

CHATTERBOX FOR 1899

THE only genuine
Chatterbox, containing a great variety of original stories, sketches, and poems for the young. All the illustrations contained in it are expressly designed for it by the most eminent English artists. Over 200 full-page original illustrations. Small 4to, illuminated board covers. $1.25

Six Handsomely Colored Plates are contained in the volume, which will be sewed, instead of wired, as before.

Same. Handsomely bound in cloth, full gilt, with chromo side, full gilt edges.

Price reduced to $1.75

This, the greatest of all juvenile books published in the world, both as to merit and amount of circulation, is fully up to its standard of excellence this year. In fact, it seems to grow better every year, and is eagerly looked forward to by tens of thousands of young people as the holiday season approaches. It contains over 400 pages, and 200 original illustrations by great English artists, and is not only a most interesting, but a very instructive book, and its healthy moral tone has always been acknowledged.

ORDER OF YOUR JOBBER, OR DIRECT OF THE PUBLISHERS,

DANA ESTES & COMPANY,
BOSTON.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

Ready Saturday, September 9 :

NEW HOUSEHOLD TENNYSON.

The Poetic and Dramatic Works of ALFRED LORD TENNYSON. New Household Edition, from new plates. With a biographical sketch, numbered lines, indexes to titles and first lines, a portrait, and 127 illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.50; full gilt, $2.00; half calf, $3.00; levant or tree calf, $4.50.

An entirely new issue of the popular Household Tennyson. It is printed from larger type than before, is profusely illustrated, and contains also portraits and pictures of historic buildings, and is, in fact, the most thoroughly illustrated Tennyson offered to the public. The book is carefully printed on opaque paper, and is attractively bound in a new style. It is unquestionably the most desirable single-volume illustrated edition of Tennyson ever published.

NEW CABINET POETS.

The Poetical Works of

ALFRED LORD TENNYSON,
OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES,
JOHN G. WHITTIER,

Printed from type much larger than that of previous Cabinet Editions, very carefully edited, the lines of the longer poems numbered, with indexes to titles and first lines, and in each volume a fine portrait of the poet framed in an engraved border which lends it an attractive distinction. Bound in a new, firm, and tasteful style, making beautiful, compact, and inexpensive volumes which cannot fail to be very popular. Each, 16mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.00; half calf, $2.00; tree calf or flexible levant, $3.00.

THE ROAD TO CASTALY.

Poems by ALICE BROWN. 16mo, $1.00. Large-Paper Edition, printed on China paper, $3.00.

RIVERSIDE BROWNING.

Complete Poetic and Dramatic Works of ROBERT BROWNING. New Riverside Edition. With introductions and notes by George Willis Cooke, and six portraits. 6 vols., crown 8vo, bound in new and attractive style, with gilt top, $9.00. (Sold only in sets.)

MEADOW-GRASS.

By ALICE BROWN. 12mo, $1.50; paper, 50 cents.

"Meadow-Grass," hitherto published by Messrs. Cope-land & Day, is well known as one of the most delightful volumes of New England stories—true to life, dramatic in narrative, finely blended with humor, and pervaded by an admirable spirit. The scenes of the stories are virtually the same as those of Miss Brown's "Tiverton Tales," just published.

Ready Saturday, September 16 :

SQUARE PEGS.

A Novel. By Mrs. A. D. T. WHITNEY, author of "Faith Gartney's Girlhood," etc. 12mo, $1.50.

The attempt to put square pegs in round holes has suggested the title to Mrs. Whitney's story. It is told in Mrs. Whitney's well-known style, and abounds in those wide-reaching suggestions, humorous touches, and flashes of inspiration, which make her stories so charming and helpful to a large circle of readers.

THE BOYS OF SCROOBY.

By RUTH HALL, author of "In the Brave Days of Old." With a frontispiece illustration. 12mo, $1.50.

In the early years of the seventeenth century three boys of Scrooby—Hugh, Jack, and Stephen—become separated and take part in notable events. Hugh is kidnapped and assists in a shipwreck; Jack is an attendant of Queen Elizabeth, and later comes to Fort Orange, where Albany now is; and Stephen is one of the Pilgrims. There are variety and incident in abundance—and Miss Hall tells a capital story.

LETTERS AND RECOLLECTIONS OF JOHN MURRAY FORBES.

Edited by his Daughter, SARAH F. HUGHES. With portraits. 2 vols., crown 8vo, gilt top, $5.00.

An excellent memorial of a man of very great business capacity, uncommon public spirit, and noble beneficence. His autobiography introduces a host of the most eminent Americans, and the books are notable in the field of biography.

NANNIE'S HAPPY CHILDHOOD.

By CAROLINE LESLIE FIELD, author of "High-Lights" and "The Unseen King." With a pictorial cover and other illustrations. Square 12mo, $1.00.

This is a delightful story of and for children, showing what thoughts and fancies people their minds, what visions and dreams make life a fairyland to them. The sayings and doings of Nannie and her companions make a very attractive story, of the same charming class with "Little Jane and Me" and "A Little Girl of Long Ago."

BOOKBINDING FOR PUBLISHERS

It is easy enough to solicit and obtain business when you can offer low prices. But it is necessary to have something besides low prices. A good reputation, good work and the ability to live up to contracts are some of these qualifications. There are many bookbinders who will take work for a low price and then cheapen the binding and delay the work because they have not the facilities of turning it out, thus defrauding the publishers.

In my new place of business, in the building at the corner of Centre and Leonard Streets, where I have a floor space of over 40,000 square feet, filled with the very latest and most modern machinery, such as automatic cutting and trimming machines, rapid quadruple folding machines, new model Smyth sewing machines, the most powerful smashing machines, the very latest improved Crawley rounding and backing machines, Smyth bookcase machines, and the very finest stamping department in this city, all run by my own electric plant, also a very extensive marbling and edge gilding department, managed by the most skilled mechanics. My capacity is over 15,000 cloth bound books per day, and I can do the best work at the lowest prices. I can safely say that I can save publishers who have large editions to be bound from 10 to 20 per cent. on all bindings. I am now ready to make arrangements for bindings for the year 1900.

This is not a plant run by capitalists, or any other moneyed trust or syndicate as a venture, but a well-appointed bindery, managed by a practical man who has made a life study of bookbinding, and has risen from apprenticeship to ownership.

SCRIBNER'S NEW BOOKS

Ready To-Day

THE LION AND THE UNICORN

By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS

Illustrated by H. C. Christy. 12mo, $1.25

IN this volume Mr. Davis makes it plain that since the publication of his last book of stories three years ago his knowledge of human nature has deepened and broadened in the same proportion that his work as a literary artist has acquired exquisite finish and precision. The volume contains, in addition to the title story, "On the Fever Ship," "The Man With One Talent," "The Vagrant," and "The Last Ride Together."

Search-Light Letters

By ROBERT GRANT. 12mo, $1.50.

Another contribution by Mr. Grant to the art of living, written with that rare combination of humor and uncommon sense that makes whatever he writes so justly popular. It is the outgrowth of his previous books, "The Reflections of a Married Man," etc., and those who have enjoyed these will be glad to know that "Fred" and "Josephine" are still alive and that they discuss these letters together.

The Art of Living

By ROBERT GRANT. New edition. 12mo, $1.50.

An entirely new edition of these cheerful, original, and kindly satirical observations on the art of living. The Boston Transcript says: "There are passages, half serious, half playful, so full of a quiet knowledge of life that one gasps a bit at the man's grasp of the modern spirit." This new edition is uniform with "Search-Light Letters," both books being printed in a charming old-style format by the Merrymount Press.

The Powers at Play

By BLISS PERRY. 12mo, $1.25.

These short stories by Mr. Perry, the new editor of The Atlantic Monthly, have a peculiar freshness and flavor which comes of a thoroughly wholesome view of life presented with all the literary skill and charm that are too often put at the service of pessimism.

Sand and Cactus

By WOLCOTT LE CLEAR BEARD. 12mo, $1.50.

A collection of stories which have given their author unique distinction as the interpreter of life and character among the frontier conditions of Arizona and the extreme Southwest. It includes, with others, "Bisnago's Madeline," "Tizzard's Castle," "Liver's Responsibility," "The Martyrdom of John the Baptist," and in a humorous vein, "Rouge et Noir."

Announce for Publication
September 22:

PARSON KELLY.

A New Historical Novel.

BY

A. E. W. MASON,

Author of "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler,"

AND

ANDREW LANG.

The story deals with the fortunes of an Irish Parson, without benefice, and a secret agent of the Pretender, in the early days of George I. The scenes are laid largely in England, and the authors' pictures of London society and of the varied intrigues of that stirring time are graphic and striking.

A pretty love-story runs through the book and adds much to the reader's satisfaction, as well as to that of the Parson.
